

I am writing to support and advocate for localism in broadcasting. Community radio and low power FM stations are an incredible resource and tool for people in this country and should continue to be available and accessible. Citizens and community members, not big companies like Clear Channel and Viacom, should be the voices on the radio giving communities voice and empowerment in the media. Please respect this right and strength of freedom of speech in our country.

-- want the FCC to restrict the power of to buy up all the stations in your town